HUSTONVILLE.

Rain Saturday necessitated a suspension of work on our telegraph line and the wires were not put up last week.

—Misses Minnie and Mattie Dinwiddie gave a cheese cutting, Friday night, in honor of their guest, Miss Minnie Drye, a Bradfordsville beauty.

—Last Wednesday morning the mercury was reported as low as 8° on highest elevations, an unusually severe temperature for November. Hustonville couldn't furnish a bushel of salt to its granger customers and wholesale hog killing had to be deferred.

—The revival at the Christian church closed last Tuesday night with 26 additions by baptism and several reclamations. Crowded houses and intense interest throughout the series of Mr. Tharpe's sermons. Universal regrets that engagements forbade his longer continuance.

—Does Senator Sherman actually depreciate the prospects onslashed upon Senator-Elect Brice? Doesn't he rather point out the informality of the course suggested and point out a programme which will relieve himself of all embarrassments and gratify the mob's demands that Brice's scalp be sought?

—What is the matter with our railroads? Would they perpetuate our unjust notoriety as the dark and bloody ground by wholesale slaughter of their employes? It is almost of daily occurrence that some unfortunate is sacrificed and threatened extermination of the exposed railroad laborers cries loud for protection in some shape.

—Corn gathering was under general headway last week, but inclement weather retarded progress. A few of the latest crops suffered by early freeze, but the main crops are excellent. Wheat was brought to a stand still by the blizzard, early last week, and many of the late sown fields still appear bare, when viewed from a distance.

—Sacramental services will be held at the Presbyterian church on the 5th Sabbath. Is there not some mistake in report that Colporteur J. D. Hudson son found 300 families in Woodford county without a Bible? Woodford is the banner blue-grass county of Kentucky, agriculturally, there being no inferior farms within her borders and no poor land, except along Kentucky River bluffs. If correct we predict that investigation will develop a disproportionately large colored population responsible for the situation. Is it true that foreign missions have so thoroughly absorbed the exertions of the faithful that home-missionary work is woefully neglected? What a commentary if true. The mountain people are the greatest church goers generally in the State. In '78, a minister of the gospel, one of a fishing party, readily complied with a request of the mountaineers that he would make an appointment to preach on the river bank Sunday morning. Having with him only a Greek Testament, he asked if any of the neighboring families had a Bible and hymn book. Mr. Blank, who lived but five miles from that point had a Bible and it would be procured for the occasion. It was Friday that the appointment was authorized and in 24 hours nearly 100 square miles of country was notified of the promised sermon. Mr. Blank, a now and then preacher, or exhorter, was promptly on hand with Anderson's translation of the New Testament and a Baptist hymn book. A rumor that measles had broken out in the neighborhood deterred a majority of the natives from attending, still a large and one of the most attentively, well behaved congregations the writer ever saw assembled on that river bank and probably but one of the entire crowd who could boast ownership of a Bible.

The following is from a gentleman at Bee Lick:

A grand and noble Wedding Mr. Mack Reynolds a son of R. W. Reynolds lives near Bee Lick ky married Miss Mollie E. Proctor. A daughter of George Proctor's a citizen of Roanoke, Co ky, married on last Wednesday and after a short time they returned back to R. W. Reynolds's and after a short time they started to a speaking at the East school house and on their way to that place as it happened they had to go by his Grand father's and Mr. Reynolds called his grand father out and says this is my wife and my grandfather shakes hands with him and says I wish you much joy first a gal and then a boy. Mack taken it all right but Mollie dropped her head just as she was羞ashamed but Mack told her she knew not to drop her head at that far that was a thing of nothing they visit her fathers last Saturday night and they are living as well as you could expect. J. W. Atton.

"I remember, I remember, full many a bleak November," quoth the aged turkey gobbler with a sigh. "I've been growing tough and tougher, I shall make the boarders suffer till they wish they were dead instead of I." —Boston Post.

THE CITY COUNCIL'S RESPONSE.

To The Interior Journal, The Citizens of Stanford and the Subscriber.

We, the members of the Board of Trustees of the City of Stanford, would respectfully solicit the attention of the citizens and "subscriber" for a few moments, in order that both sides of a question, which is of interest to you on the one hand and on the other involving the integrity and faithfulness of your humble servants. Under ordinary circumstances sour grapes would give us as private individuals the cramps, but under color of office we will vomit them up without even the smell of an antidote.

In the previous issue of this paper some one calling himself a subscriber and for reasons unknown to us concealing his name, has seen proper to pounce down upon the City Fathers and heap unjust accusations and censure, as we think, upon us.

In the first place, he has accused us indirectly of a misappropriation of the city funds, and calls upon us for a printed statement of the receipts and disbursements of said funds. In answer to this charge we most emphatically deny that any of said fund has been used for other purposes than the necessary expenses of the city and in making various improvements, such as opening new streets, Macadamizing some and putting in street lamps, in doing all of which we used our best judgment and discretion in order that all of the citizens might be benefited, our city better laid off and opened up for building purposes. The statement which the subscriber so loudly and appealingly demands of us, was published through the columns of this paper last April, just as our charter requires, to which we now refer and make a part of this letter.

The subscriber next accuses us of partiality in locating the street lamps. We answer this by asking him to count the lamps on the east side of the court house, which is the central point of our city, and then count those on the west side. We claim and aver that there are at least three or four more on the west side than on the east. We will further assert that we do not believe there is a single good citizen in our city, who will say that a single lamp has been placed except where good judgment and reasonable care did not require it of us. It was our purpose to keep in position a lamp at each of the bridges in the city limits, because we deemed it exceedingly dangerous to travelers at such points. In pursuance of this purpose a lamp was placed at the Hustonville bridge, west of the city and kept there until the Comanches, or some of their kith and kin, destroyed it.

In regard to the water works, we will say that we made a contract which was pronounced by our city attorney and Col. W. G. Welch to be a good one for the city, and we have every reason to believe that had the company been financially able to construct them our citizens and constituents would have been well satisfied with it. It is still our intention to procure said water works if possible and to this end we are using our utmost endeavors at present.

Eddie Jones, a little son of Mr. W. F. Jones, was kicked by a horse a few days ago and narrowly escaped being killed.

—Mr. Richard Cates, an old citizen, fell one day last week and broke his arm. Mr. W. T. Richards is dangerously ill of pneumonia.

—Thanksgiving day will be observed by most of our citizens. The school will be closed of course, as the teacher is a democrat, and has much for which to be thankful.

—There was a regular old-fashioned "hoe down" at the widow Mason's last Saturday night and the young folks tripped the light fantastic till the "wee sma' hours" to the music of a couple of French harps operated by a couple of McKinney dudus. And now New Salem church will have some important work to do in the way of arranging some of its members for violating the church law against dancing.

—Let the prodigal west end man return to his first love and meet with us once more and if he then finds it impossible to associate with corrupt and unfaithful officers, then in such an event stay at home as of old, draw his annual salary and let his constituents still labor under the delusion that their west end man is doing his whole duty and nothing but his duty.

In writing this article we have endeavored to give a correct and honest statement of the workings of your city fathers, and whilst we have no desire to enter into a controversy through a newspaper, still our records are always open to inspection and we invite any of our constituents to bring their complaints to us and visit us while open for the transaction of business, resting assured that you will receive a fair and impartial hearing at our hands. And now having fully answered our subscriber, we beg that in the future harmony and good will will abide among us and let the east and the west ends "pull" together for the good of all concerned.

Your most obedient servants,

THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES,
By D. W. VANDEVEER, Mayor.

"The Boyle County Democrat," Danville is to have another newspaper, to be known as the Boyle County Democrat and the initial number will appear about Jan. 1st, under the management of T. M. Morrow, of Mt. Sterling, and Thos. C. Fox, of this city. The paper will be issued as a semi-weekly and, as indicated by its title, will be democratic in politics. Jos. Haas has shut down his turkey slaughtering establishment until Dec. 1st. He killed about 7,000 for the New York and Boston Thanksgiving trade, and paid 6 cents per pound for the birds delivered. E. W. Lee sold 30 feeding cattle, weight 1,200 pounds, to Sam Harris, of Lincoln, at $3.55, and 10 head of yearlings to Mat Sandige at $1. —Advocate.

The subscriber charges us with violating and repudiating our contracts with some of the citizens of the west end. Under our charter and by-laws we have what is called a street committee, whose duty it is to look after the various street improvements of the city. J. G. Carpenter, one of this committee, we are informed, made a contract with himself to put in a pavement in front of his premises at the expense of the city and receive in addition a bonus of $9 for removing his fence, he voluntarily giving us the right of way over the Stanford & Danville turnpike, over which he had no control. All of which when reported to the council was deemed too generous on his part, and for fear that his nerve would be overtaxed and "stretched" beyond endurance, was promptly declared null and void. Perhaps the other contracts to which the subscriber has referred —A Polish inventor claims to have discovered a process of manufacturing smokeless and odorless coal at a cost of $1 a ton.

The Kentucky delegation is said to stand as follows for the speakership: For Crisp—Stone, Ellis, Goodnight, Montgomery, McCreary—5. For Mills—Breckinridge, Paynter, Dickerson and Kendall—4. For McMillan—Caruth.

A fireman on the C. & O. named C. C. Hall, seduced the 16-year-old daughter of Editor J. W. Pomfrey, at Covington, and on being locked up in jail with a felonious charge against him, he offered to marry the girl and the offer was accepted and the knot tied.

LONDON, LAUREL COUNTY.

Jeweler John B. Oakley has a new baby boy at his house.

—Little Bessie, daughter of E. H. Hackney, is down with pneumonia.

—Miss Martha Sutton, daughter of H. C. Sutton, died Friday night of typhoid fever.

—Tom Province's son, Jim, got his arm caught on a saw while throwing a belt at the Eureka Planing Mill, last Friday, and got a terribly severe cut.

—The jury in the Noble Smith case, for killing Charles Cawood, brought in a verdict of "not guilty." Judge M. C. Santley's speech is said to have been the best made in the case, although R. L. Ewell, A. H. Clark, W. O. Bradley, T. P. Hill, H. C. Eversole, John A. Black, D. K. Rawlings and perhaps others delivered very able ones. George Thompson, of East Bernstadt, charged with robbing Robert Burns, was given two years in the penitentiary. He expects to get a new trial. Dale Reid, for shooting through a door of Mrs. Leece, was fined $100 and 25 days. Frank Medley, for shooting Bill Miller, was fined $100. All other cases tried were of no importance. The grand jury indicted George Gragg for murder in the killing of Bob Miller, at Pittsburg, and his bond was fixed at $3,000. They also failed to indict Ed Hale for killing Tom Beckner, the evidence showing justification. They indicted the express agent here for delivering C. O. D. packages supposed to contain liquor. The Foster case, brought here from Whitley, is set for trial Friday. A good many miscellaneous indictments for liquor, pistols &c., have been found.

—The public well in Macksville has plenty of water and is on the west end of town, mentioned doubtless by mistake by the subscriber. The other public well to which he calls attention is over seventy years old and only one-third of which belongs to the city. Our subscriber has doubtless misplaced his memorandum of the birth of said well.

It seems to us that the subscriber has overleaped the bounds of discretion and in his comments takes occasion to censure us because the good citizens of the city have seen proper to elect us as its officers. This seems to us to be a very uncalled for remark. We realize and cheerfully assert that no matter on which side of Lancaster street or which we may chance to be situated, it is our duty to look to the interests of all within our city limits.

In regard to the water works, we will say that we made a contract which was pronounced by our city attorney and Col. W. G. Welch to be a good one for the city, and we have every reason to believe that had the company been financially able to construct them our citizens and constituents would have been well satisfied with it.

We are not suffering from any "social" trouble; we only need more funds and the hearty co-operation of the citizens to build up a good and substantial city and have its streets paved with gold.

We are almost persuaded, like the good shepherd of ancient days, to leave the ninety and nine and go in pursuit of the lost one. Go, Gabriel, and lead Thomas gently back into the fold and we will forgive the past and dismiss you from our presence with the injunction to "go and sin no more."

Let the prodigal west end man return to his first love and meet with us once more and if he then finds it impossible to associate with corrupt and unfaithful officers, then in such an event stay at home as of old, draw his annual salary and let his constituents still labor under the delusion that their west end man is doing his whole duty and nothing but his duty.

In writing this article we have endeavored to give a correct and honest statement of the workings of your city fathers, and whilst we have no desire to enter into a controversy through a newspaper, still our records are always open to inspection and we invite any of our constituents to bring their complaints to us and visit us while open for the transaction of business, resting assured that you will receive a fair and impartial hearing at our hands. And now having fully answered our subscriber, we beg that in the future harmony and good will will abide among us and let the east and the west ends "pull" together for the good of all concerned.

Your most obedient servants,

SEMI-WEEKLY INTERIOR JOURNAL

STANFORD, KY., NOVEMBER 27, 1891

W. P. WALTON.

The Louisville Times tells this ofer true tale, which shows the baleful results of the worst trade the people could have made: "When the democratic party surrendered the presidency and the House of Representatives to the republican party March 4, 1880, there were $130,000,000 and upward cash in the treasury available for purposes other than the ordinary expenses of the government. To-day the sum is reduced to less than $5,000,000, and it would have been altogether extinguished had not Secretary Foster negotiated a new loan. Verily, the American people made the worst trade in history, since Esau traded with Jacob, when they swapped Grover Cleveland for Ben Harrison and John G. Carlisle for Tom Reed."

MINNEAPOLIS was chosen by the republican national committee for the convention to nominate presidential candidates and Jan. 7, 1892, as the day. With the help of St. Paul the crowd may be accommodated, but it is doubtful. Col. Bradley, the Kentucky member, made a strong speech for Chattanooga, but his party seems as fearful of coming South with its convention as it is of nominating a southern man for the office, and but three others voted with him for that place. The republicans hope that by going to the Northwest, which has become debatable ground, to create so much enthusiasm that they will be able to hold what they used to consider their own without question.

SINCE the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette has espoused the cause of Foraker for U. S. Senator, it does not mind telling tales and bad ones at that on Senator Sherman. It says that in two of the five elections that have made him senator, money cut an important figure, or to be plainer, his election on those two occasions was obtained by the wickedest kind of bribery. Heretofore, according to this great and good sheet the democrats alone put up the office to the highest bidder. It is said indeed to be told by one of it that the party which claims all the godliness and all the morality permit such flagrant violations of its professions to go unwhipt of justice.

THE unscrupulousness of some of the Catholic priests and the strange influence they have over their people, is shown in the fact that Father McBride made a dying man will him all of his property before he would administer the last sacrament. This fact was proved in court and the property ordered divided among the man's natural heirs. The designing priest escaped punishment here, but he will doubtless catch it hereafter, if there is a hell, and we hope and believe there is.

THE Georgia Courts have no especial admiration for those Napoleons of finance, who succeed in failing for $2,000,000 or more without any assets in sight. Steve Ryan, of Atlanta, who performed that remarkable feat, has been ordered to put up $125,000 or be shut up until he purges himself of contempt. This is the last day of grace and it remains to be seen whether this full handed swindler thinks more of his ill gotten gains than of his freedom.

FONSECA, after denying strenuously that there was any trouble in Brazil, seems to have at last submitted to the fact that there is a pretty smart sized revolution on hand. At any rate he has resigned the presidency in favor of Vice-President Florino Peixotto, satisfied that a good run is better than a bad stand, especially since it was evident that the people had had enough of his dictator business.

THE Cincinnati Daily Enquirer is emphatically a newspaper. It makes printing the news a business and the item that escapes it is usually not worth the type or space. In addition to the news the weekly edition gives a vast amount of information for the farmer and all other classes and is one of the best all around weeklies published. See prospects and premiums offered in another column.

KENTUCKY will be entitled to 26 delegates to the National republican convention, four to be selected from the State at large and two from each congressional district, to be chosen by conventions. Col. W. O. Bradley will head the list and the delegates will vote with him solidly for Harrison, the opinion of the bald headed druggist of Frankfort to the contrary notwithstanding.

Gov. A. P. Hovey, of Indiana, died Monday of disease contracted in a recent visit to Mexico. He had been supreme judge and during the war rose from colonel to brevet major general. Lt. Gov. Chase, a preacher politician of the Reform persuasion, has succeeded to the governorship.

We are rather surprised to see Gov. McCleary put down for Crisp for the speakership as he is a Mills kind of a democrat. Bynum, of Indiana, has withdrawn for the race and come out for Mills, who seems to have the call even if Tammany is against him.

The election of a democratic U. S. Senator and the repeal of a most unfair and partisan gerrymander law seem assured in New York. The Senate will stand democratic 16, republican 15, independent 1, insuring with the casting vote of the democratic lieutenant governor, a democratic organization. The house will stand 66 democrats to 62 republicans, making the vote on the joint ballot safely democratic, another thing that made yesterday's thanksgiving unusually strong for the democrats.

NUMEROUS places for a conference of delegates to prepare a charter for the 5th class towns of the State having been suggested and no point settled on, Mayor D. W. Vandevere proposes as a compromise, that the city of Louisville be fixed as the place and Dec. 14th, as the day for the meeting. He further suggests that all the mayors of towns of that class signify their endorsement of the suggestion in a note to the Courier-Journal, which is requested to call attention to this proposition.

SENATOR JOHN G. CARLISLE has declared for Mills for speaker, and McMillan, of Tennessee, will withdraw from the contest and vote for him. Hurrah for Mills!

NEWSY NOTES.

—Frank Bolton shot and killed Alex Williams, aged 18, near Jellico.

—Four persons were burned with the Homestead Hotel at Jamestown, N. Y.

—Miss Lillie Shearer slipped off the foot log into Hickman Creek, in Jessamine county, and drowned in the presence of a dozen cowardly men.

—The Mt. Sterling Sentinel says:

"John McGallaway, Sr., went to Nicholas county hunting last week. He bagged 69 birds and 92 rabbits in one day."

—A company called "The Consolidated Black Cat Company" has been formed in the State of Washington, for the propagation of black cats for their fur.

—Judge Ross, of the United States Court at Los Angeles, has sentenced three Yuma Indians to death for the murder of an old medicine man who had failed to bring rain.

—The loss to shipping by the September and October hurricanes is estimated by the marine underwriters to have been over $20,000,000 and 90 souls are known to have perished.

—Dynes C. Campbell, father of Editor W. P. Campbell, of the Kentucky Post, committed suicide a few days ago at Cincinnati, by drinking Paris Green dissolved in a glass of beer.

—A number of county clerks met at Lexington and appointed a committee, of which Reed Nichols, of Boyle, is one to wait on the codifying committee and secure a uniform method of recording.

—Edward Robert Bulwer Lytton, son of the novelist and English Ambassador to France, died suddenly in Paris. He was better known as Owen Meredith and his "Lucille" is considered his best work.

—Mrs. Mary Machett, of Buchanan, Ind., is a grand-mother at 32. She has been married 5 times, but has had only three husbands, as she remarried two of those from whom she had been divorced.

—President McDowell, of the Tennessee Alliance, denies that the National organization endorsed the People's party movement at the Indianapolis meeting. He says such reports were sent out by enemies of the Alliance.

—When the postmaster at Cincinnati makes a requisition for supplies he makes a requisition. He received this week in response to one 3,500,000 one-cent stamps, 6,000,000 twos, 150,000 threes, 100,000 fives, 100,000 tens, 30,000 fifteens and 10,000 special delivery stamps, making in all $180,000 worth.

—The commercial club at Louisville has called a convention to be held in Louisville, December 19, for the purpose of organizing to the end that Kentucky may be properly represented in the world's fair. All of the county judges will be requested to call mass meetings to send delegates to it and take other steps to see that the objects of the convention are carried out.

—Earthquakes of terrific force shook up Japan from centre to circumference. Whole cities were left in ruins where fire did not complete the horror, 10,000 people were killed, and as many badly hurt, while over 90,000 houses were crumbled to the earth, leaving half a million people homeless. The calamity is the most disastrous occurring in Japan since 1855.

—A terrific wind and rain storm passed up the Atlantic coast to the Potomac Monday, doing great damage along the route. It was especially severe in Washington, where Metzger's new music hall was blown down, killing two people and wounding many others. A section of the stone balustrade around the roof of the White House was torn away, falling through the portico at the eastern entrance. The loss is estimated at a quarter of a million. Baltimore also suffered severely.

PERSONAL POINTS.

Mr. G. B. Cooper returned from Lexington Wednesday.

Miss Maggie Tucker is visiting the Misses Menefee.

Mrs. Robert McAlister is visiting friends at Hustonville.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Carpenter and family are visiting in Boyle.

Mrs. S. P. Sandidge and son, Stewart, are visiting the Misses Beazley.

Dr. L. B. Cook and family are spending a few days with friends at Burnside.

Mrs. Dr. D. W., wife of Conductor G. W. Delph, is visiting Miss Lizzie Davison.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Ramsey, of Lexington, are with Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Ramsey.

Mrs. W. G. Welch is out after a spell caused by encountering two blizzards in Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. McRoberts spent Thanksgiving with Miss Dolly at Daughers College.

Hon. D. B. Edmiston and wife are in Louisville, where the latter is under medical treatment.

Mrs. C. C. Engleman and J. W. Engleman are visiting Mrs. J. S. Hundley in Washington county.

Mr. B. VanArsdale, who has been quite ill, is improving. Dr. W. N. Craig, of Louisville, has been with him a week or two.

Miss Ora Wilmore, a little Nicholaville beauty, passed up to Crab Orchard yesterday to visit her mother, Mrs. F. W. Dillon.

In the declamatory contest between the literary societies of Centre College, Tuesday night, W. H. Shanks, of this place, and R. G. Williams, of Mt. Vernon, represented the Dejnoelogian and acquitted themselves handsomely.

Miss Jean Buchanan, who has been with her sister in Louisville for several months, returned to Crab Orchard Wednesday, accompanied by Mr. John A. Haldeman, of the Times, who came up to eat turkey with Col. John Buchanan.

CITY AND VICINITY.

New line of beautiful wall paper at W. B. McRoberts'.

New line of gents' underwear, socks, &c., the best ever in our city. Severance & Son.

P. W. Green, of the Myers' House, spread a fine feast yesterday and kept open house to his friends.

Mule buyers will do well to attend the sale of 50 mule colts at Harlan's stable, in Danville, Ky., December 5th.

The Centre College foot ball team went all the way to Nashville, to play the Vanderbilt University team, but it failed to show up and the visitors were shabbily treated generally.

Three hundred pairs of sample gloves, a big lot of silk handkerchiefs, mittens, suspenders, socks, ties, &c. All must be closed at once, as the room will be vacated in a few weeks. Cash Bargain Store, J. S. Jones.

The first order for a set of the Encyclopedia Britannica came from Mr. James Maret, Mt. Vernon, who orders the INTERIOR JOURNAL sent to Mrs. M. P. Smith, Cleveland, Va., and takes the books himself. Read the offer and go and do likewise.

Mr. M. F. Elkin remembered the editor with as fine and fat a turkey as you ever stuck a knife into, for which we will show our gratitude by killing the first man who says he ever has or ever will sell a piece of tough steak. Take him up one side and down the other. Mr. Elkin is about as clever a man in any way you look at him as you will find in a day's journey.

The Portman House set a thanksgiving dinner yesterday that fully proved its capacity in that line. There was everything that heart could desire, prepared in a most tempting manner and the patrons and invited guests enjoyed the spread to the fullest extent. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Coffey are more than sustaining the reputation of this excellent hostelry.

The Union Thanksgiving Service was held in the Presbyterian church yesterday, which had been appropriately prepared by the best hands of the ladies of the Christian Endeavor Society. The pulpit was ornamented with cereals, fruits and other products of the soil, which has so bountifully responded to the tiller this year, and was most artistically arranged. Rev. A. V. Sizemore, of the Baptist church, preached from the 103d Psalm to a large congregation and his suggestions on thanks and thanks-giving were well delivered and timely.

SUBSCRIBERS of the INTERIOR JOURNAL can save from 25c to $1.50 on magazines and other periodicals ordered through us. Cash must invariably accompany the order.

I AM back at my old stand and will be glad to see my old customers and as many new ones as may come. Groceries and confectionaries cheaper than ever. W. H. Brady.

SQUIRE CHARLES H. BELL, who used to live here, has blossomed into an editor and publisher since moving to Aberdeen, Washington, and his paper, the Weekly Bulletin, gives evidence that he knows how to write and how to write it most entertainingly.

THE railroads will pass persons to the educational meeting at Louisville at 12 o'clock for the round trip, tickets good Dec. 1st to 5th. The Fifth Avenue Hotel will be headquarters, where a rate of $1.50 a day will be made when more than one person occupies a room.

THE Centre College Alumni, of Louisville, gave a banquet Tuesday night, at which Mr. John W. Yerkes responded to the toast, "Centre College—Its Future," in his usual eloquent way. Hon. Boyd Winchester was elected president and Judge F. T. Fox vice-president of the association.

If our merchants were thankful yesterday they failed to show it by shutting up their stores and going to church. If closing is a sign of thankfulness, however, the banks and the post-office are always duly, and truly thankful. The one as close as an oyster yesterday, the other observed Sunday hours.

Mr. Henry Caminitz, who has had charge of the Weatherford House at Hustonville, has left his first love and moved to the Verdone, at the same place. Mr. C's. reputation as a hotel man is so well known as to make comments unnecessary, while, Mrs. Caminitz, who will have charge of the dining room, is a cuisinist of the first order.

ATKINSON'S JOLLITIES, booked to appear here last night, and the Josephine

Eliy Company, which wrote for a date, have both gone to pieces. Perhaps it is best. There are too many troupe on the road anyway. Beach & Bowers are not among the number, however, but with a finer minstrel show than ever, will be with us without fail Friday night, Dec. 1.

THE adjuster for the Northwestern National was here this week and refused to nington's house, which was entirely consumed. Mr. P. wants all or nothing, and if he can't get his rights without it, will appeal to the courts, which will doubtless make the company do what everybody thinks it ought to do without a word.

burg church on the 22d with 13 additions. The Sunday-school there is in a most flourishing condition.

THE MASKED BALL.—The one who suggested that Thanksgiving be celebrated in a masquerade ball had the supreme satisfaction of seeing his expectations realized to the fullest extent, for it proved an exceedingly enjoyable occasion to the large number who took part. Some of the costumes were very handsome, the disguises were almost without exception complete and many were the surprises when the masks were removed. The girls in their fancy costumes looked unusually lovely and a number of the gallant knights bore themselves with historic dignity and pomp. The music was good; the supper at Zimmer's excellent; the order commendable and the enjoyment complete. Following are the names of the lady maskers and the characters they represented:

Miss Annie Alcorn, Independence.

Miss Mary Alcorn, American Navy.

Miss Mattie Vandever, Lady of 1891.

Miss Nannie Vandever, Maid Muller.

Miss Lula D. Slaughter, of Danville, Night.

Miss Nannie Mahan, Danville, a mountain pink.

Miss Annie Shanks, Night.

Miss Sue Ront, Betsy Blossom.

Miss Ophelia Lackey, Peasant Girl.

Miss Clara Lackey, Night.

Miss Mattie Owsley, Flower Girl.

Miss Ella May Saunders, Night.

Miss Maggie Owsley, Queen of Hearts.

Miss Bessie Reid, Nun.

Mrs. G. C. Keller, Jr., Luna.

Miss Margaret Graham, Cincinnati, Flower Girl.

Among the other ladies who danced but did not mask were Misses Helen Sankey, Gertrude Howard, Annie Hale, Mrs. W. B. Penny and Mrs. T. A. Rice. The gentlemen who took part were C. C. Breese, Highland Scout; Harry Drake, Danville, sailor; J. S. Owsley, Jr., Scotch lassie; John Baughman, Danville, Zouave; R. G. Denny, William Tell; G. C. Keller, Jr., Astrologer; W. B. McKinney, devil; J. E. Embry, Harlequin; J. B. Gentry, Carmelite; Dr. W. B. Penny, Damon, and W. H. Weare, Pythias; G. T. Lackey, Heathen Chinnee; E. H. Jones, Duke of Buckingham; Joe Jones, Mountain Boomer; J. C. Reid, Tom; C. C. Carson, Jerry; J. W. Ront, Jr., clown; E. C. Walton, negro; W. A. Tribble, sailor.

Among the visiting gentlemen who seemed to get much enjoyment out of the entertainment were Messrs. James T. Crutchfield, traveling freight agent of the L. & N., and W. F. Sheridan, chief train dispatcher; Chas. Anderson, John Farra and Jake Robinson, of Lancaster, and the Rice brothers, of Danville. The dance was kept up almost till broad day light and the boys went home with the girls in the morning, with but a single regret in any heart, and that was that the happy event had passed into a memory.

MATRIMONIAL MATTERS.

—Marriage license was issued Wednesday to Hugo Schmitz to wed Mrs. Emilie Wiggle at Ottenheim on Dec. 6.

—W. J. Kirkpatrick and Miss Cora Baugh, just "sweet sixteen," celebrated Thanksgiving by becoming husband and wife.

—G. T. Huids, a widower of 46 years, and Mrs. Nancy Ann Denny, a widow of 37, obtained license yesterday to wed this afternoon.

—Mrs. Annie Ingalls, an Indiana bride of but 24 hours, eloped with Bert Lowry, a former lover, and the two made good their escape.

—Mr. E. R. Davis, of Dillon, and Miss Alice Stuart were married at Crab Orchard yesterday evening, of which we will have a fuller account in our next. Meanwhile we congratulate the groom on winning so excellent a lady and wish them both full realization of their bright hopes.

—Mr. W. A. Coffey, a prosperous farmer of the McKinney section, was married Tuesday, near Somerset, to Mrs. Nunneley, a handsome young widow.

They came up to Mr. Coffey's home on Wednesday, where a fine dinner was given by his many friends and at which a number of them were present. The INTERIOR JOURNAL wishes them a long life, full of happiness.

—We hope our friend, S. C. Lackey, of Atlanta, Ga., will not sue us for libel for getting him mixed with his cousin of the same name in Cuero, Texas, and publishing to the world that he was about to marry. The mistake was quite natural and we hope no harm was done further than to cause some hearts to mourn, till the error was explained and then the joy overbalanced the grief.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF STANFORD, KY.

Capital Stock..... $200,000
Surplus..... 16,500

Attention of the public is invited to the fact that this is the only National Bank in Stanford.
Under the provisions of the National Bank Act, depositors are secured not only by the capital stock, but by the stockholders' liability for an amount equal to the stock, so that the depositors of this institution are secured for a sum of $200,000.
The sworn statements of the condition of the bank are made each year to the United States government and its assets are examined at stated times by government agents, thus securing additional and perfect safety to depositors.

This institution was originally established as the Deposit Bank of Stanford in 1858, then re-organized as the National Bank of Stanford in 1865, and again re-organized as the First National Bank of Stanford in 1870. It has a continuous uninterrupted existence of 22 years. It is better supplied now with facilities for transacting business promptly and liberally than ever before in its long and honorable career. Accounts of corporations, fiduciaries, firms and individuals respectfully solicited.

The Directory of this Bank is composed of T. J. Foster, of Stanford;

Forrest Reid, Lincoln county;
J. W. Hayden, Stanford;
S. H. Baughman, Lincoln;

M. J. Miller, Mt. Vernon;

S. T. Harris, Lincoln;

OF PUBLIC NUISANCES.

MRS. FRANK LESLIE ON CERTAIN FEATURES OF TRAVELING.

Steamship Pianos—Children on Board Ship—The Saloon on a Wet Day—Sleep with Your Head to the North—Fans, Perfumes and Little Dogs.

[Copyright, 1891, by American Press Association.]

AVING passed considerable of my time abroad every summer it is very natural that I should still be irritated by the pin pricks of travel, and although I am perfectly sure I can do nothing at all toward abating them, it will be a relief to my own mind to specify some of the worst and say on paper what my tongue fairly throbbed to utter personally to the objects of my wrath.

Foremost among these I place spoiled children and public pianos. Children and music are the two chiefest blessings in life, but I am writing of spoiled children and public pianos, and I am perfectly sure every honest and fearless traveler, or for that matter stayer-at-home, will agree with me that more discomfort is to be obtained from these two sources in a given time than days of peace can compensate.

One lies in one's berth or on a lounge in the saloon on board ship, haunted by the melancholy and vague forebodings which either precede, follow or serve as substitute for mal de mer, and although life is not apparently worth the living, one endures it with a certain amount of stoical philosophy until somebody sits down at the piano and with preliminary skirmish up and down the keyboard, like the howl of a wild beast in sight of its prey, or the war whoop of a band of Comanches, begins the "Blue Danube" waltz or the "Guards' March," or somebody's dream, or the other one's cradle song, or some frightful attempt at Wagner, or perhaps only an etude and a few chromatic scales. Whatever it is it is pretty sure to be ill played, and the agony of assisting at all those false notes, flasques, crashes, trying agains and frantic attempts at plumping through by main force, is a foretaste of purgatory to which one should not be called upon to submit before death.

Or if, by some chance, the pianist is competent and the piano in tune, there is something irritating and upsetting about music when one is not well and is longing for quiet. I like music as well as most people, although I don't believe most people like it as well as they pretend to, but I don't like it out of its proper setting and occasion. The opera is a necessity of civilization, and somebody to play and sing at a reception is indispensable, and "little music" on the water goes well with moonlight, romance and all that, but music when one is gastrically unhappy, or trying to sleep, or to read, or to find out where one's money has all flown, or to write a letter even while one loathes the pen—under all these circumstances music, no matter how good, is an impertinence, an annoyance, yes, a nuisance, and I always shiver when, in going through the saloon of a steamer or of a hotel, I see a piano open and grinning defiance at me from every one of its sixty teeth. As for hand organs, street bands, ballad singers and all their brethren, the world has its opinion and I need not add mine, but if I were an autocrat I would certainly place every variety of music under strict regulations, and see if it might be possible to prevent it from ever again becoming a public nuisance.

For spoiled children, I am afraid it would be more difficult to abate this nuisance, and yet it is in some respects a heavier one. Probably there are no other children in the world so bright, so handsome, and yet so spoiled and so irrepressible as American children.

The national spirit of independence develops earlier than the national self respect and self government, which, with the independence, make American adults the most respectable men in the world, but the child the most impossible in the world, unless brought up by exceptional parents, and of course all my friends are of this exceptional class.

But the child whom one often meets on steamers, and at hotels, and in picture galleries, and in all public places is simply a terror. Forward and unabashed, it takes possession of the best seat, the best window, the best coigne de vantage, ruthlessly trampling on one's draperies, laying sticky fingers on one's sleeve or glove, pushing, elbowing and grasping until one is glad to yield for the sake of escape. If conversation is attempted, this kind of child either obtards his own questions and comments, or persists in forcing his mother, cousin or aunt to attend to him and his own topics to the destruction of the conversation.

At table this sort of child demands everything and all at once, absorbs the servants and occupies the attention of its natural guardians, who vainly try to convince him that lobster salad, milk, pickles and cheese will not be likely to agree with him, and will "oppose one another," as they say in Spanish, in the course of digestion. He persists in his own selection, and after dinner is either cross as a little fiend or ill, so that mamma must retire with him and come back to discourse upon the extraordinary delicacy of Tommy or Totty's constitution and the methods she has pursued to keep the dear little thing alive.

Sometimes a troop of these darlings, on a wet day at sea, turn the grand saloon into a happy hunting ground and play at wild Indians or African hunters in chase of roaring wild animals, or turn themselves into a fire brigade and extinguish mighty conflagrations, their mammas either looking on with smiling appeal, or, turning their backs upon the whole proceeding, retire to their cabins and their novels, while the nurses flirt with the stewards and the governess with the surgeon and purser.

Sometimes the pianos and the children combine their forces, either as a baby who in his nurse's arms thumps the keys with its little fists, or a girl of ten or twelve years old who stumbles through her little "pieces" and feels that she is almost grown up.

Once I heard two little dears disputing as to which could make the most noise, and emulating each other in alternate bangs, but on this occasion the captain himself interposed, and although by so doing he probably gained the undivided attention of both the mammas, I loved him and told him so.

The next best public nuisance, in my experience, is the valetudinarian.

Of course I do not mean the patient and genuine invalid whom everybody pities and tries to make comfortable, for no one with a heart in his breast can fail to pity and sympathize with such, but the people who love to fancy themselves ill, and fuss and worry and annoy everybody near them with their continual requirements and objections.

They must have the window shut, or the window open; they can't sit in a draft, and they must have the sun; they can't eat this or smell that, or be in the room with the other thing; may they have this chair, and could you spare that hassock; the odor of certain flowers, or of hay, or of flats is poison to them; they must have their beds made with the head to the north or they can't sleep; if a thunder shower is coming up they must be provided with feather beds, or insulated chairs, or at least dark rooms, and nobody must laugh about it. This sort of person delights in making a new acquaintance, for this means a new listener, and few nuisances are more intolerable, for the time, than a table à tête from which you are forced to listen to a dreary detail of every ill and every remedy to which humanity is, or fancies itself, victim.

Another charming ornament susceptible of being made into a nuisance is a little dog, and dear as I have loved and do love one of my own, I am proportionately annoyed by the ill trained, ill tempered, ill managed little dogs I have encountered in traveling. Like children, a dog may be a charming companion, a lovely pet and a dear little friend, or it may be so pampered, un-governed and ill conditioned as to degenerate into a public nuisance, and more I will stop, lest I be voted one myself.
